I understand that my participation in all activities is voluntary and that I may choose to quit at anytime. I understand that the purpose of these events is merely for fun. I understand that these stunts are designed to challenge, disgust, embarrass, and take me beyond my normal comfort zone. I understand that my safety is taken into regard with the design of the activities but there is still the possibility of injury. I understand that these activities are designed for this event only and should not be attempted outside of this event.
